Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 15 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Thunderstorms developing over parts of England Wednesday night.

This Evening and Tonight:
After a fine evening, most areas will have a dry night with clear spells. Cloud and outbreaks of rain over parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland will spread east to reach parts of Wales and northern England overnight though.

Wednesday:
Fine for many with some hot sunshine for much of England and Wales before evening thunderstorms develop for some. Further north, a few showers over Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
After a mainly dry day on Thursday, spells of thundery rain will affect England and east Wales through much of Friday. Drier again Saturday. Elsewhere, mainly fine though rather cool.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.